The Paddington Guardians have been investiguting the case of Mr. Wood, the millionairs. who was brought to the workhouse by the faibure of Overend, Gurney, and Co. He was originally a Mauchester manufacturer, and, after accumulating a large fortune, retired into private life. Dissatisfied with the monotony of retirement, he came up to London. Here be haonine a prominent director of the Marylabone Bank; and when that affair collapsed he was served with a writ for £150,000, and thus become beggared. He then went to the Southern States of America, where he again succeeded in acquiring a large fortune, every penny of which he lost during the American owil war. Returning to London success again followed his efforts, but his spirit of enterprise died out with his last failure, which was caused by the stoppings of fesers: Overend, Gurney, and Co.'s concern. There is no doubt of the accuracy of this nara.
